Commissioner Adelstein:

It doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that children mimic what they see. Although we regulate what our children and grandchildren see, it is becoming increasingly difficult to find anything on television, especially childrens cartoons, that don't have violent content. Childrens cartoon have become especially violent... I refuse to subject my grandchild to anything that has subject matter of violence. You must stop this demoralization process!! Children see violence as the only means of working out solutions to problems...is it any wonder that there is so much violence in the streets! When are you going to wake up and realize that what children are seeing is being acted out by them. It has got to stop.

Sincerely,

Mary D. Sims

Commissioner Abernathy:

I wish the violence on TV could be done away with. This society is too violent already and TV just reinforces that it is the acceptable way, instead of teaching people how to deal with problems in a reasonable way. TV can serve a good purpose but in the last 30 years it has been steadily going down hill morally in both sex and violence. Free speech should not cause the decline of a society. Freedom to do that which causes harm to others is not really free speech. It is the ruination of a society. Have we not learned anything from the historical lessons of the fall of Rome and other great societies that fell when they became morally bereft?
